PRINCETON.

THE CAMPUS SURVEYED BY FREDERICK LAW

OLMSTEAD. Princeton, Sept. 27 (Special).-In addition to the exensive building operations of the summer, a general marvey has been made of the campus, with the view the whole into a magnificent park, preserv ing its many natural advantages and determining the slies for future buildings. This work has been in charge of Frederick Law Olmstead, and the plans have een accepted by the Committee on Grounds and

The changes in the curriculum have been extensive dronomy and geology, hitherto required studies of the senior year, have been placed in the Junior This leaves only ethics, a two-hour study equired in the first term of the senior year, and evidences of Christianity one hour a week in the second There has been a corresponding increase of senior electives, with wider room for choice.

Several additions have been made to the faculty. The Rev. John Grier Hibben, A. M., of the class of 1882, and ex-fellow in philosophy, has been appointed ssistant in logic. Fred Neher, A. M., of the class of 1889, who has spent two years in this country and Europe in post-graduate work in chemistry, is assistant that department. Charles Sidney Smith, A. M. and Nicholas E. Crosby, A. M., have been added to the tructors in Latin and Greek. The latter is a graduate of Columbia College of the class of 1883, and is a son of the late Dr. Howard Crosby, of New-York. Messrs. George R. Wallace and George Wheeler will assist the ors in the department of oratory in which they old fellowships.

Princeton graduates have been in large demand for other institutions. Among the recent appointments are the Rev. Matthew B. Lourie, D. D., of the class of 1863, to the chair of New Testament literature and execusis in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Omaha; Henry A. Todd, Ph. of new men who have entered college this year, there will be plenty of room for the selection of good material, and about sixty men are training already.

The freshmen are training for the class games, under the direction of captain Young, Philip King and some juniors. About sixty have come out, and from these a nine will be selected to represent the class at the games, which begin Monday. The nines of the upper classes are in fairly good form. The sophomore nine will begin work at once.

The election of Professor Woodrow Wilson to the Graduate Advisory Board gives universal satisfaction.

HAVELFORD.

Haverford College, Penn., Sept. 27 (Special).-College opened on September 23 with a large freshman class Most of the old students are back, and there are several accessions to the juntor and sophomore classes. President Isaze Sharpless is amon at his post, after a nce in Europe, where he has been making a study of educational methods and institutions, es-pecially of the English public schools, such as Eton and Rugby, and the colleges and universities. Several additions have been made to the faculty this year. The place of Dr. Henry Crew, professor of physics, who has been granted two years' leave of absence to accept a call from the Lich Observatory to conduct some special astronomical observations, is supplied by Dr. J. O. Thompson, Ph. D., of Strasburg. Dr. George A. Barton, a graduate of Haverford, and Harvard, has been appointed instructor in Christ College, Cambridge, England, assists Professor Morley in mathematics, Professor Brown having the department of applied mathematics. George H. Blckford, A. B., Wesieran, is instructor in English.

A new system of honors for the senior and junior classes has been adopted by the faculty. This system encourages specialization in study and confers he for superior work in special lines of study. The undergraduates have received it with great favor.

A large number have entered the fall tennis tournament. This will be out of the way before the football season fairly begins.

BOWDOIN.

Brunswick, Me., Sept. 27 (Special).-Having gradu ated last commencement its largest class for thirty years, Bowdoin begins its new year with an entering class of exactly the same size. The freshmen, though beaten in two of the three annual athletic contest with the sophomores, are likely to furnish excellent material for the football eleven, which has suffered seriously with the departure of the class of 1891 Captain R. F. Bartlett, '92, is practising his team dally and at the same time is in quest of a good coacher.

The Labrador scientific expedition returned last week. Professor See and his men received a most Messrs, Austin Cary and D. enthusiastic reception. M. Cole, who are the first to bring back to civilization a scientific account of the great falls on the Grand River, are well known as well as popular among the undergraduates, each having served as assistant in the scientific laboratories.

The Winkley professorship of Latin, made vacant by the resignation of Professor E. M. Pease, who goes to the Leland Stanford, jr., University, has been filled by the election of William C. Lawton. Professor Lawton graduated at Harvard in 1873. Last year he was professor of Greek at Boston University. He was engaged in the excavations carried on at Assoc under the American Institute of Archaeology, and has since served as the secretary of the Institute.
Charles N. B. Wheeler, also a Harvard graduate, who has spent five years in the study and teaching of modern languages, entered upon his duties as instructor in German at the beginning of the term.

FOOTBALL TRAINING BEGUN DEFORE THE UNI-VERSITY OPENS.

Cambridge, Sept. 27 (Special).-Although October is the date set by the faculty for the opening of Harvard University, and although the maximum scholastic surry and bustle will not begin until then, neverthe less there are many signs of life on the yard and in the streets, and 400 or 500 men have returned. A large number of these, perhaps, could not properly be said to return, as they are freshmen and have never been here before, and from the present outook the class of '95 bids fair to be the largest freshman class ever

What graduates and people in general are interested in is the fact of Captain Traiford's getting the football candidates out for practice over a week before the date fixed for the opening of college. Grit, perseverance and an ability fir hard work are three prominent characteristics of Captain Bernie Trafford, and whatever these three qualities can accomplish for Harvard's football interests Captain Trafford is bound to obtain. Accordingly for the last few days a large number of candidates for the eleven have been tumbling teams, and prominent among these are Burgess, '93, who stroked his class crew last year and was a substitute at New-London; Bloss, '64, the broad jumper and sprinter; Stone, '94, catpain of his freshman elever last year; Curtls, '94; Saltonstall, of last year's freshman eleven; Frothingham, '93, right field of last year's university nine and half back on the second deven last year; Green, '93, the best all-round athlete in college; White, '92, the mile runner; Thayer, '94, the sprinter, and Kelton, '93, who has rowed on the university crew for two years. There are four promi nent athletic freshmen who, are also candidates for the eleven; Worden, of Groton School; Davis, of St. Mark's; Grant and Dodge, of Phillips Exeter Academy. by Cumnock, Dean, Finlay, Cranston, and P. Trafford; for only six of the old eleven have returned. These Hallowell and Upton, and the last named is suffering from illness which will prevent his playing for a little of two. It will be seen at a glance that it is J. A. Westfall. The sophomore and junior classes will not centre where Harvard will probably be weak this hold their elections this week. at centre where Harvard will probably be weak this year; for it is hard to get three such men for a entral bulwark as Cranston, Finlay and P. Trafford. central bulwark as Cranston, Finlay and P. Trafford. However, with Kelton, '93, the 200 pound No. 7 of the 'varsity crew, as guard, and the whole freshman class of about 500 to select from for the other guard and centre, the centre of the line may not prove such a vulnerable point after all. The first announced football game of the season is to be on Saturday, October 3, when Dartmouth will meet flarvard on Jarvis Field; and for this game and other contests of the fall the men will be coached by ex-Captain Cumuock, who has been made a member of the Athletle Advisory committee.

Speaking of faculty committees brings to mind the fact that there have been one or two important changes in the faculty itself, and that this is the year when several prominent professors take their "subbatical." Among these are Professor Francis G. Peabody Plumer professor of morals, Assistant-professor Kittredge, and Mr. Wright, instructor in political economy. In the faculty Professor Briggs of the English department becomes active dean of the college in place of Professor Clement Smiri; and Harvard has to regret the resignation of Professor Chaplin of the Scientific School, who leaves Cambridge to accept an important place in a Western university. aking of faculty committees brings to mind the

WILLIAMS.

Williamstown, Mass., Sept. 27 (Special).—The fresh-man class at Williams brings in a magnificent supply of athletic material, and the outlook for both baseball and football is exceedingly promising. There are already three candidates for the place of pitcher for the college nine left vacant by Charles Spaulding. An unsually large number of men are trying for places on the ootball team, four of Andover's victorious eleven, including the captain, being among the number. In all five captains of elevens at preparatory schools have entered Williams. Captain O. B. Brown, of last year's champion team, has already begun to train his men.

The college Young Men's Christian Association tendered a reception to the freshmen last night in Good-The hall was hung with championship hanners, speeches were made by representative literary or athletic men, college songs sung by all, and the sual address was made by the college president, Dr. Franklin Carter. The senting capacity of the chapel has been enlarged to suit the increased number of students and new facilities for vertilation have been supplied. An en-tirely new building, larger in every way, will soon be needed.

ROCHESTER.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 27 (Special).-Football diectors have been chosen as follows by the different classes; N. T. Barrett, '92; H. S. Sleight, '93, and A. E.

Griest.

PHILLIPS ACADEMY, ANDOVER. Andover, Mass., Sept. 27 (Special).-The first term of the 114th year of Phillips Academy opened do September 5, with a much larger number of students enrolled than the school has ever had before. There are over 400 already, which is sixty more than at this time last year, and it is probable that before the end of the year the school will grow much larger The faculty of the academy, too, has been enlarged by the addition of a new instructor in the English language, Mr. Boynton, a recent graduate of Amherst.

The prospects for a football cieven, which is a subject of great interest now, are very good, but the team will not probably be as heavy as the one which brought victory to Andover last season. Only three members of last year's team are playing here now, but several of the substitutes are back, and among about in the dirt on Jarvis Field every afternoon, and the new men there many who are acquainted with practising passing and punting. Most of these are the game and will make good players. The season nen who have distinguished themselves on class was opened last Wednesday, in a game between the Andover team and Stagg's Springfield eleven, which was won by the latter by the score of 30 to 18. The preliminary tournanent of the tennis associa tion begins next Wednesday, and the victors in this tournament will play against Exeter's champions next month. Last year the cup offered for the championship in singles was won by Andover's representative, while the cup for doubles went to Exeter. The new science building will possibly be ready for use before the end of this school year.

LEHIGH. South Bethlehem, Penn., Sept. 27 (Special).-The various classes are now beginning to organize. The It is from these candidates that Captain Trafford must senior elections resulted as follows: President, G. P. select the men who are to fill the places left vacant Case; vice-president, S. D. CHANGES AT COOPER UNION.

INCREASING ITS ACCOMMODATIONS

MANY MORE APPLICANTS THAN THERE IS ROOM

Owing to the repairs which Cooper Union is undergoing at the present time the various schools in that popular institution will be opened later this year than usual. The Night Schools of Science will begin their essions October 7, the Night Schools of Art No ber 2, and the Woman's Schools of Art October 19.

participates. Price advanced to L. C. L. Jordan, the faithful and efficient assistant par ($10.00) Oct. 1. vanced far enough in their work on October 1 to enable the schools to open at the usual time. That, however, is impossible, workmen in fact will be engaged on parts of the building all winter. An additional story, or at least part of one, is being placed on the Union to Increase its capacity. Applicants became so numerous that this change was absolutely necessary. Owing to the absence of funds in former years the improvement was delayed until the present summer. The foundations of the building have been trengthened in various parts to support the additional weight of another story. Many changes have been made also in the interior of the building. The large room on the sixth floor of the house, extending over the greater part of the Union, formerly used for the storagh, f various things, has been remodelled for the users? the Woman's At School. Unfortunately, however, it will not be ready for use as intended this year, so that the students will be obliged to occupy their old quarters. It will be ready for the pupils next year. When there will be places for 700 young women in that department of the Union. The room will have all the necessary improvements, so that the pupils will be able to study to much greater advantage than here-tofore. When the various changes are completed Cooper Union can accommodate about 700 more pupil than to-day. This increase in its scating capacity is necessary. All the classes for the coming year are filled and have been filled for months. Indeed, more than 1,200 young men are already on the waiting lists for next year. These applicants will receive first consideration the coming year. This is true of the other departments as well. The class in stenography this year will be composed of fifty young women. Mr. Jordan examined about 500 young candidates in selecting the class. All applicants for admission to this class must be at least sighteen years old. Graduates of the grammar schools usually have the best chances. The graduates of this class have no difficulty in securing positions in the city. In many places in fact one of the first questions asked an applicant is "Are you a graduate of the Cooper Union School of Stenography ?" Mr. Jordan has never heard a single complaint regarding the graduates who have secured positions. These facts are known and therefore the applicants are exceedingly numerous.

There is still room for pupils in the classes of chemistry, philosophy and branches. Instruction in these studies is given by Despite the generous gift of $200,000 by the will of Daniel B. Fayerweather, which will enable the trustees to make the changes in the Woman's Art Department, funds are still needed for the library. In the annual report that need is described as follows:

The department of the institution which now has the most need for immediate extension and development is the free reading-room and litrary. So far as spi berned, the addition of the gallery will probably double its facilities, but the expenditure which the trustees are able facilities, but the expenditure which the trustees are also to make upon this branch of our operations is entirely inadequate to the demand for its privileges. The amount expended is about $10,000 per annum, which suffices to supply the leading magazines and newspapers of this and supply the leading marginers. The reference library has, however, re-foreign countries. The reference library has, however, re-mained almost stationary in the number of books, because by constant use they are so worn as to need frequent re-placement. So far as possible the current publications have been supplied, but at least $10,000 additional per annum is necessary in order to keep up with the lates treatises upon science, art, history, and other departments of learning to which the great mass of our people access except through the medium of the Cooper Union.

One of the trustees, John E. Parsons, has given the sum of $1,000, which during the last year has coabled sum of $1,000, which during the last year of the more important publications, but a much larger annual expenditure is required to make the reference library abreast of the times. There is thus presented to some enlightened and generous donor the presented to some enlightened and generous donor the pportunity to associate his name with that of Mr. Cooper creating a trust fund similar to the Fayerweather trus the income of which shall be devoted to the enlargement of the library. This suggestion is made because when the Fayerweather trust was created it was asserted, with out the slightest foundation in fact, that the money thus appropriated was not wisely devoted to the Cooper Union because it had ample resources and generous supporters within its own circle of influence. The Cooper Union has indeed received from Mr. Cooper's family a most genby the large expenditures which have been seriously taken by the large expenditures which have been made with building, amounting to over $400,000 when the property of the pr nt reconstruction is completed, since the death of Mr.

It was his idea that the institution would receive from other quarters considerable endowments, and he did not sup-pose originally that he or his estate would be called upon matter of fact, Mr. Cooper not only erected the building, but he provided an endowment fund of $300,000, which, with the income of the rented portions of the building, has seen sufficient thus far to maintain the institution upon its present scale of usefulness. But the pressure for greater facilities is so great that the trustees would be dereiled in their duty if they failed to apprise the public of the wants of the institution, and to express the hope that from some querter the endowment required for the necessary supply of books to the library will come from some one who will consider it a privilege to have his name associated with Mr. Cooper in this work of beneficence. It is to be hoped that some wealthy citi, a will the advantage of this opportunity to do good.

UNION SEMINARY AND THE ASSEMBLY.

A LAYMAN CALLS ATTENTION TO A CIRCULAR ISSUED IN 1883 BY PRESIDENT HITCH-COCK AND CHARLES BUTLER.

The approaching heresy trial of Professor Briggs and the conference between the Union Seminary directors and the General Assembly's committee bring up anew the relation of the seminary to the Assembly. The friends of the seminary insist that it is a temporary relation, made at the suggestion of the seminary, which can be terminated at pleasure. Those who insist on holding the seminary to the compact by legal means if necessary assert that it has for twenty years enjoyed the privileges of an Assembly institution, and now that a question of discipling has arisen it should be held directly to its pledges and not allowed to

"Our friends tell us that they have received no benefits from the new relation begun after the reunion," said a prominent Presybterian layman last week. "Let us see. The present relation has been sustained for twenty years. In that time the insti-tution has removed from its former site in University Place to its present home on Lenox Hill. After the death of Dr. Adams, Dr. Roswell D. Hitchcock became president, and during his term of office the transfer took place, made possible by the large gifts which he

"The question is whether the money was given because the seminary was under the care of the General Assembly !" suggested the reporter.

"Undoubtedly, some of it was, but what is more to the point, I have here a copy of an appeal issued on January 22, 1883, and signed by Charles Butler, president of the board of directors, and Roswell D. Hitchcock, president of the faculty, in which the compact between the seminary and the General Assembly, now held so lightly by the faculty and directors of the eminary, was made the basis of an argument why loval Presbyterians should contribute to the money needed for the new buildings. This is the heading and introductory paragraph:

" 'Union Theological Seminary in New-York City is governed by a board of twenty-eight directors, out-half of whom must be clergymen, and the other half laymen. This board fills its own vacancies, but reports annually to the General Assembly of syterian Church, and in 1870 conceded to the Assembly the right of veto upon its choice of professors. The orthodoxy of the seminary is also carefully guaranteed by the doctrinal subscription required of every director and of every professor.'

"After a brief reference to the history of the semmary, and to the purchase of the Lenox Hill property, the gifts already made, and the additional $100,000 recared to put the institution, free of debt, into its new quarters on Lenox Hill, the statement is made that, 'large amounts have indeed been contributed, especially in recent years.' The circular closes thus, "The object of this appeal is to solicit subscriptions of some who have not contained in former years, or, having contributed, are willing now to do something more toward establishing the seminary in its final home."
